The Big history

It is known that East and West for ages have been always taken as two separate parts of the human world of the planet Earth's habitants - the Humanity. This division can be traced since ancient times - long ago B.C.

The ancient East in nowadays minds of Humanity is linked mostly with ancient China, though we also remember ancient India and Mongolia.

The ancient West is linked mostly with ancient Greece, though we also remember ancient Persia and Egypt as well.

Conclusion

6. 'The East can receive Western thinking'
 - a) The spiritual foundations of human rights
 - b) Shared values about human beings
 - c) Shared recognition of responsibilities and rights
 - d) This is reciprocal – the West can also 'receive' from the East (e.g., Buddhism's notion of duty /dhamma)
7. The resources within the East

Thesis

- The formation of EH has reproduced a monological religious form.
- But religions are undergoing internal transformation through the recent dialogical turn.
- Therefore, the EH that Taylor sees as constituting our secular age is neither a more self-evident framework for our global world nor the most effective means of generating appropriate forms of global security today. However, EH has important lessons to teach religious traditions today about dialogical and perhaps eschatological mechanisms and patterns of thought within religious traditions.
