

Vita

Karim Douglas Crow is Senior Research Fellow at the McLean Center for Study of Culture and Values, The Catholic University of America, and served the Council for Research in Values and Philosophy since 2002 as scholar-coordinator on Islamic Thought and Muslim Modernity. He took his Ph.D. (cum laude) and M.A. (1978) in Islamic Studies at the Institute of Islamic Studies (McGill University, Montreal); and his B.A. (1972) from The American University of Beirut. From 2008–2016 he was Principal Fellow in policy research at the International Institute of Advanced Islamic Studies (IAIS, Malaysia). He taught Islamic Thought at the S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies (Singapore); the International Institute of Islamic Thought and Civilisation (ISTAC, Kuala Lumpur); as well as Columbia University (New York City) and The University of Virginia. Professor Crow publishes on Islamic Reason and Ethics, the Sunnī–Shīʿah schism, metaphysics, and modernity.

/ contact – crowk@cua.edu .